things were made by poor men who were thus employed and by a slave.
Dear Mrs. Chapman - I do not know what to say with respect to the poor men who were in this position.
I am anxious about your safety - it is something like intrusion to write a letter which you should read when occupied with business - but as one of the Secretaries of the "Local L. S. Society" I know I shall be welcome and at all events consider that with I must only be considered as a messenger of evil - our boy was taken today to the Post Office when we heard that the steamer does not leave till Saturday - this makes it doubtful whether the Box will arrive in full time to be shipped for the Post of the 10th - we hope it will - but alas! Lopes will not carry boxes across the channel - If you should think any of the articles new you will be glad to hear it - no one objects to hearing things praised which others had made - only for us names to be mentioned - The articles are all put in the box at half price - I am afraid it was imprudent to put the worsted dressing gown at the top as worsted pays such a high duty but it can't be helped - We have this year got donations from the gentlemen's Anti-Slavery Society - now this is particularly a greable as they were in connection with the London Committee - They have got a new Secretary who though a clergymen is most liberal in his opinion - he has read the Herald and Liberators and all the Standard but if a clergymen reads the former and likes to read it and be orthodox his saying a great deal - We have not sent you a list of the names this year and may be we never will again! Mr. Matthew, I alone say you have heard on this, has at last consented to have his circumstances made known - and it is found that he is several thousand pounds in debt principally to his own family - The subscriptions have been very great one gentleman has given $ 500^{anonymously} - he has unfortunately had some misunderstanding with the Dublin Committee, he thinking they intended to give him so much as their travelling agent and they only intending to secure him a yearly sum - it is not much to be wondered at that they should think it well for him to be restricted - and yet that he should do like such a restriction is only natural especially as other places have subscribed and said nothing - it is one a pity but such things will sometimes arise between friends however when intentions are good on both sides all will soon be well - our catholic countrymen regard him in every sense of the word as an apostle and therefore they cannot bear that he should be treated as another man might be - you have wondered how he spent the money but that is easily accounted for when it is considered that he gave medals every where, many silver ones of 5$, 10$, and 15$ value - to advance the cause was his thought - We are getting better placed with the A.S.

Standard than we were but we still miss Mr. Child's articles and selections - this we do - but still doubt not that its usefulness in your country must be increased a thousand fold by its change of Editors - in fact what rendered it so pleasing to us was its not being so very full of Anti-Slavery - We would wish very much that our box was smaller and ^{its} value not to be diminished thereby some things that we are sent are scarcely worth sending to you but we can assure nothing as our things are shown to the public before they are packed - We just hear that one panel is not to arrive until tomorrow - truly a day after the fair - I have said nothing to you of your letter but it was not the less valued - I hope the Unionian if you are weary of me yet I am glad to see you again. And I hope you will be able to give us some time to talk about old times & our old life. - Mrs. Fox has been writing to me about her son & his wife & their new home & I am very glad to hear from him.

I have not written to you for some time now &
